Weekly Report Highlights1. Congress

- ~~The Office of Congressional Affairs (OCA) has heard from the Minority Counsel for the Senate Intelligence Committee that the non-controversial parts of the Oversight Bill (such as a definition of covert action and prohibition against retroactive findings) probably will be added to the Intelligence Authorization Bill. The Minority Counsel also believes that the 48-hour question will be treated separately.~~

2. Budget

- The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has apportioned the Agency's funds for FY 1989. The funds have been passed to the directorates. OMB also has requested a quarterly financial plan--something CIA has never provided previously. FROM: John L. Helgerson
Director of Congressional Affairs

SUBJECT: Weekly Report

Britt Snider, Minority Council for the Senate Intelligence Committee, told members of the Legislation Division that he thought there was a good chance that the non-controversial elements of the Oversight Bill would be added to the Intelligence Authorization Bill. The non-controversial items included such topics as the definition of covert action, the requirement for a Presidential Finding to be in writing, and a prohibition against a retroactive finding. He believes that the 48-hour question would be treated separately.
